

Cheez Balls Are Back and the World Demands These 7 Snacks Return, Too

Written by Avalon Lustick on June 28, 2018 1:59 pm.

f Share

Tweet

G+ Share

People who dedicated their time and energy to bringing back Planters Cheez Balls and Cheez Curls have been rewarded, and now, it's time for these other snacks to return.

After 12 years, the people who started petitions, created online groups and wrote snail mail letters asking Planters to bring back their favorite cheesy snack are finally getting what they want.

For a limited time only, Planters is bringing back Cheez Balls and Cheez Curls beginning in July.

“We heard many impassioned pleas for us to bring Cheez Balls and Cheez Curls back over the years, and we wanted to give our fans a chance to reunite with their most-missed cheesy snack,” said Planters Head of Brand Building Melanie Huet. “We made sure our Cheez Balls and Cheez Curls still have the same delicious taste, airy texture and fluorescent color you know and love, so our fans can enjoy a nostalgic trip down memory lane with every canister.”

The world is lucky to be blessed with the delicious puffs again but there are other snacks from memory lane that need to come back.

NESTLÉ WONDER BALL

Buying a Nestle Wonder Ball was buying an experience.

The chocolate orb held wonders an 8-year-old could only imagine.

It was the perfect candy. Sweet chocolate, savory candy, and a prize?!

Nothing compares to you Wonder Ball.

DUNKAROOS

Even though the frosting to cookie ratio was off, Dunkaroos are a sweet tooth essential the world misses.

Convenient and delicious, the world is not the same without Dunkaroos.

HIGH C ECTO COOLER

High C Ecto Coolers were delicious.

The good thing about this treat is that it tastes great to kids and adults.

Apparently, Coca-Cola brought the drink back to promote the "Ghostbusters" reboot in 2016, but that wasn't enough.

SQUEEZIT

If you missed out on the High C Ecto Coolers, the next best thing was Squeezits.

Squeezits was the nectar of the earth and all the artificial ingredients mankind had to offer.

GUACAMOLE DORITOS

Guacamole Doritos was the epitome of modern science. Mixing a dip and a chip? That's a step for evolution.

More like one step forward and two steps back considering the delicious chip has been discontinued.

There are other brands that have the same chip, but it will never be Doritos.

READ: SAY NO-NO TO KNOCK-OFFS: THESE NAME BRANDS ARE WORTH THE EXTRA CASH \(/NEWS/NATIONAL-VIDEO/SAY-NO-NO-TO-KNOCK-OFFS-THESE-NAME-BRANDS-ARE-WORTH-THE-EXTRA-CASH\)

ALTOIDS SOUR

Altoids Sour is popular among a select portion of consumers, and all they do is complain about Altoids Sour being discontinued.

The tart mint hit you like a slap in the face, which a lot of people like apparently.

FLAMIN' HOT CHEETOS ASTEROIDS

A common first world problem is not being able to carry around your regular Flamin' Hot Cheetos.

If only there was a product that put the cheesiness into a convenient container and small poppable shape.

Oh wait, there was, but it looks like Chester the Cheetah hates everyone and took the perfect asteroids away.