David Ortiz's support for the Patriots in the Super Bowl probably comes as no surprise.

While he was promoting his new wine line "Arias Wine" for New Hampshire Wine Week, Ortiz told NH1 his friends expressed concern about Tom Brady's ability to play.

Ortiz said his friends expressed concern and confusion about the five-time Super Bowl champion's hand injury when they went out to dinner one night.

He joked with them saying, "I talked with him a few days ago."

While his friends eagerly anticipated his answer about the status of Brady's hand, Ortiz told them Brady said to "enjoy the show."

Joking aside, Ortiz is happy for the Patriots and wishes them well in the Minneapolis.
