NASHUA - When police were called to a residential property, they found the body of a Nashua man.

Early Sunday morning, police responded to a 911 call at a home at 19 Buck St.

Here they discovered the body of David Smith, 49, of Nashua.

New Hampshire Attorney General Gordon J. MacDonald and Nashua Police Chief Andrew J. Lavoie said that Smith's death is suspicious.

An autopsy has been scheduled by the chief medical examiner's office for July 9.

The investigation is ongoing.

There is no evidence to suggest that there is any threat of harm to the general public.
